PRODUCT & INSTALLATION SPECIFICATIONS

NON-COMBUSTIBLE CONSTRUCTION Insulated Jacket NOT Required

Combustible material can not be within 24" of the grills frame

FRONT VIEW

- This applies to all directions horizontal & vertical
- Shaded area above on "TOP VIEW" illustrates the 24" minimum requirement (not to scale for rendering purposes)
- The grill is designed to hang from the counter top with no support underneath
- Minimum rear clearance for the hood to open is 2"
- If you have a wall/partition behind the grill, the minimum rear clearance to that wall should be at least 7" to allow for ventilation of the exhaust

COMBUSTIBLE CONSTRUCTION Insulated Jacket Required

FRONT VIEW

- ✓ If using combustible material within 24" of the grill frame, you MUST use the corresponding Coyote Insulated Jacket
- Using a insulated jacket, does not waive any other standard installation procedure (ventilation, connections, etc)
- The jacket is designed to hang from the counter top with no support underneath
- Minimum clearance for hood to open is 2"
- If you have a wall/partition behind the grill, the minimum rear clearance to that wall should be at least 7" to allow for ventilation of the exhaust

Ventilation Requirements:

- ✓ Regardless if you are using a combustible or non-combustible building material, you must include at least two vents within the island.
- These vents must be at least 20 sq. in. each and allow fresh air to move from the grill cabinet to the exterior environment.
- For a propane setup, the vents should be installed lower as propane is heavier than air.
- For a natural gas setup, the vents should be located higher in the island, as natural gas is lighter than air.
- Do not locate the two vents on the same wall of the island. Cross ventilation is key to allow any excess heat or trapped gas to dissipate.
